M.TECH. – CONSTRUCTION TECHNOLOGY AND MANAGEMENT

INTRODUCTION

School of Engineering, NICMAR University Pune has launched a two-year full-time on-campus new programme in Master of Technology (M. Tech.) in Construction Technology and Management (CTM) specialization that aligns well with the principles outlined in the National Education Policy (NEP) and National Higher Education Qualifications Framework (NHEQF). The program incorporates various components of the curriculum that facilitate comprehensive technical learning and skill development.

The philosophy behind the design of the M. Tech in Construction Technology and Management specialization at the School of Engineering is rooted in recognizing the multifaceted nature of the construction industry and the evolving needs of technical professionals within this sector. The program is designed with a holistic approach to not only equip professionals with a broad skill set for success in the construction field but also to cultivate advanced technical abilities, problem-solving skills, research acumen, and analytical thinking for addressing complex challenges in construction projects. In addition, it integrates technical expertise, management strategies, and humanities/life skills to prepare individuals for a successful career.

At its core, the program philosophy emphasizes the following principles:

Technical Abilities: Recognizing that success in the construction industry requires a diverse skill set, the program aims to equip students with well-rounded technical competencies. The programme delves deep into various construction techniques, construction methods, machinery utilization, geospatial practices, building information modelling, infrastructure and building design and execution. Through rigorous coursework and hands-on training, students develop a comprehensive understanding of advanced technologies and processes in construction, enabling them to tackle technical challenges effectively.

Problem-Solving Abilities through Practical Application and Experiential Learning: Problem-solving lies at the core of successful project management in construction. Students are trained to identify, analyze, and solve problems encountered in construction projects through a combination of theoretical learning and practical application. The program emphasizes hands-on learning experiences to complement theoretical knowledge. Laboratory sessions, field-based learning, internships, and projects are integral to gaining real-world experience and exposure to real projects in the construction industry. This approach ensures that graduates are well-versed in theory and capable of applying their knowledge effectively to the dynamics of real-life projects. These experiences enhance problem-solving skills and provide exposure to practical challenges faced in construction projects.

Multidisciplinary Perspective: Acknowledging the multidimensional nature of the construction industry, the program fosters a multidisciplinary approach. By integrating technical, management, and humanities/life skills courses, students develop a broader perspective considering construction's ethical, legal, and societal aspects. This interdisciplinary approach prepares graduates to address complex challenges and contribute effectively to the construction industry.

Industry-Relevant Curriculum: The curriculum is designed in alignment with construction industry standards and practices. By covering courses related to advanced construction techniques, the latest trends in construction materials, project management, estimations, contracts, project controls, geoinformatics, BIM, transportation infrastructures and legal issues, etc., the program ensures that graduates are equipped with the skills and knowledge needed to navigate the complexities of construction projects and meet industry demands.

Analytical Mind Development for Development of Technical Solutions to Onsite Project Issues: Analytical thinking is essential for effective decision-making in construction projects. The programme fosters the development of analytical skills through coursework in data analysis, quantitative methods, and risk assessment. Students learn to analyze complex data sets, develop designs, evaluate project risks, and make decisions to optimize project outcomes. The programme emphasizes practical problem-solving by challenging students to develop innovative technical solutions to on-site project issues. This hands-on approach fosters creativity, adaptability, and resilience in students as they navigate the complexities of on-site project execution.

Research Abilities through Research Project: As a part of the curriculum, students undertake individually, a six-month research project focussed on a live construction project. This immersive research experience allows students to apply theoretical knowledge to real world scenarios, conduct in-depth analysis and propose innovative solutions to practical challenges encountered on-site. Through this research endeavour, students develop critical research skills, gain practical insights and contribute valuable findings and research papers to the construction industry.

Continuous Adaptation, Innovation and Entrepreneurship: Recognizing that the construction industry is dynamic and constantly evolving, the program is designed to be adaptable and responsive to changes in technology, regulations, and industry trends, fostering an entrepreneurial mindset among students. Through ongoing curriculum updates and engagement with industry stakeholders, the program ensures that graduates not only stay abreast of the latest developments but also actively seek out opportunities for innovation and entrepreneurship. The programme introduces new construction materials, sustainable practices, and digital technologies for project design, execution, and management and equips the students with the skills and mindset to identify opportunities, take calculated risks and develop innovative ideas into successful ventures. This entrepreneurial approach not only benefits individual graduates but also contributes to the overall growth and competitiveness of the construction sector.

Internships/Community Engagement and Service: Internships and community engagement initiatives provide students with opportunities to apply classroom learning in real-world settings. Through internships with construction companies or relevant organizations, students gain practical experience, network with industry professionals, and understand industry standards and practices. Community engagement and service projects foster social responsibility and ethical considerations in construction practices.

By incorporating these components into the curriculum, the Construction Technology and Management specialization ensures that graduates are well-prepared to meet the demands of the construction industry and contribute effectively to its dynamic and evolving landscape. Furthermore, aligning with NEP, NHEQF emphasizes the program's commitment to providing a holistic education that prepares individuals for professional success and societal responsibility.

Overall, the philosophy behind the programme's design emphasizes the importance of providing a comprehensive education that prepares individuals not only for technical proficiency but also for leadership, innovation, and ethical decision-making in the construction industry. By adhering to these principles, the School of Engineering aims to produce well-equipped graduates to make meaningful contributions to the field of construction technology and management.

ACADEMIC REQUIREMENTS

The curriculum is organized into four semesters. The students are exposed to various theory courses, tutorials, and practical hands-on training. The students will complete the requisite credits to complete the PG Programme. The semester-wise distribution of course and credit is indicated in Table 1.

Courses

Typically, a two-credit course involves 30 hours of teaching. The courses may sometimes be of one credit or 3 to 4 credits depending on the content. The courses may include tutorial/practical components for hands-on training. The courses are divided into various categories to ensure the all-round development of students and provide adequate depth and breadth of knowledge. The courses may be divided into the categories such as General Core (GC), Programme Core (PC), General Elective (GE), Programme Elective (PE), Domain Elective (DE), Studio, Field Visit, Seminar, Lab, Practical, Workshop etc. In addition, the curriculum includes Massive Open Online Courses (MOOCs) and Self-Learning courses to foster lifelong learning. It also incorporates project-based courses such as social immersion, community services, study tour, capstone project, research project, mini or minor project or entrepreneurial project to facilitate experiential learning. For the Massive Open Online Course (MOOC), students must register, clear the exam conducted by the organizing body (such as SWAYAM or NPTEL etc.), and submit the certificate showing the % marks obtained to claim the credits.

Summer Internship

As part of the curriculum, each student has to undergo supervised field training of 6 credits after semester 2 with a reputed firm for 8 to 10 weeks. Given the on-the-job training, the student is also expected to perform specific regular duties on the project, as assigned by the respective organization. Organizations for practical training are carefully selected from reputable firms. Based on their performance, students may receive Pre-Placement Offers (PPO). Essentially, the University seeks meaningful and supervised work experience for its students. Students may opt to work on assignment-based project topics. At the end of the summer internship, students must submit a report for evaluation.

PEDAGOGY

NICMAR University believes that the method of instruction may vary from course to course; therefore, it uses a host of pedagogical approaches such as case studies, lectures, group and individual exercises, class projects, studio, flip classes and simulation to enrich the overall programme delivery. Further, site and field visit, study tours, and expert talks are organized across different courses.

The total credits may be further classified into Lecture (L), Tutorial (T), and Practical (P). In the lecture sessions, students are familiarized with the course's concepts and knowledge. The tutorial components help students better understand the concepts through problem-solving, case analysis, or hands-on practice. The practical component is designed for exclusive hands-on training

ASSESSMENT

Course Evaluation

The course evaluation comprises two parts: The semester-end examination and the internal assessment. The weightage for the same is given below.

Evaluation	Weightage (%)
Term End Examination	50
Continuous Internal Assessment (CIA)	50

The term end examination is only for courses with an L component and shall be of 1 or 2 hours long.

Continuous Internal Assessment (CIA)

Continuous Internal assessment (CIA) is the continuous evaluation of a candidate's performance throughout the course and is conducted by the concerned faculty member. For a course with a Term-end examination, 50% weightage is assigned to the internal evaluation. This internal evaluation of candidates shall be carried out by at least three components, of which the Unit test component is mandatory. For all courses, the Unit test will carry 40% weightage of marks (20 Marks). This will be conducted during the tenth week of the semester, and the syllabus will cover material up to that point. The fifth week of the semester will be Internal Assessment 1 (IA1), and the last week of the term will be Internal Assessment 2 (IA2). The syllabus for IA1 will run until the fifth week, and the syllabus for IA2 will run from the Unit test until the last week of the semester (i.e., 15th week). For IA1 and IA2, the faculty can select any of the following components.

The IA1 and IA2 may have the following components:

- Class-participation
- Case analysis and presentation
- Quizzes/ Class test/Surprise test/Assignments (announced/unannounced)
- Term papers/Decision sheets/Project reports
- Research Paper Presentations/Viva
- Individual assignments/Group assignments/Presentations/Decision sheets
- Field project
- Role Play/Simulation
- Any other school/program/course-specific component

Summer internship and project work

The summer internship is assessed solely by the internal faculty. A summer internship carries 100 marks and is assessed during the third semester. The weightage assigned is 40% for report writing, 40% for presentation and 20% for question answers.

Students' project work (Seminar and Interim assessment) is evaluated by the assigned guide and an internal faculty (this is done at the end of the 2nd and 3rd semesters). The final viva voce is evaluated by the guide and an industry expert or by faculty members from the other institute.

Failure Cases

NICMAR University's programmes are highly demanding, and students of a high caliber are admitted through a rigorous evaluation. Consequently, every student is expected to complete the procedure in all subjects and submit their project work promptly unless there are legitimate grounds for delay. A student is declared 'Pass' in a course if they score at least 40% marks in internal and semester-end examinations individually.

If any student fails to obtain the minimum passing marks in the internal or semester-end examination, they will be declared fail. Such a student will have to reappear for the examination by paying the re-examination fee of Rs. 2000/- per course and obtaining the minimum passing marks to qualify.Similarly, non-submission of project work on time is not acceptable. A candidate is not considered to have completed the programme unless they submit the project report, which is judged satisfactory by the guide and awarded the required ratings by the examiner/s appointed for the purpose.

If the students wish to have their examination paper (s) re-evaluated, this can be done on payment of the re-evalution fee of Rs. 1000/- per course.

Grading System

Evaluation will be done on a semester basis. A Semester Grade Point Average (SGPA) and Cumulative Grade Point Average (CGPA) will be calculated at the end of every semester. Students should complete all courses to meet the program requirements.

Award

On successful completion of all the pre requisite requirements, the eligible student will be awarded the entitled with specialization if any.
