DIRECTOR GENERAL'S MESSAGE

"It's not about perfect, it's about effort. And when you bring that effort every single day, that's where transformation happens. That's how change occurs." – Jillian Michaels

It is matter of great pride that NICMAR University Pune has been approved by the State Legislature and we are on track of setting up 'First Self-Financed Specialist Built Environment University' of the country. The transition process has already begun and step-by-step we are moving forward on this path of being a reputed industry focused institution to a collaborative modern digital University, that aligns all its stakeholders in the journey of academic, research and career excellence.

I am thankful to the entire NICMAR family for their hard work, dedicated efforts and their perseverance towards making this dream a concrete reality. Special mention to the backend teams that have really gone all out and put tremendous efforts to get this going at every level and through the multiple stages of this ongoing journey and transitory process. As the quote highlights, every effort every single day matters in creating the whole picture; thus, it is our pride that we at NICMAR have not only been able to fulfil our promises of delivering academic and career growth to our learning partners (industry/student community) but also surging ahead towards fulfilling a long-standing cherished vision of being the most prominent name in the Built Environment education space.

There is so much to do in the coming times, by all of us towards creating this spectacular knowledge platform of sharing, learning and collaboration. I look forward to your energy, enthusiasm, dedication and continued support towards this very exciting transformation.

Professor Anil Kashyap
Director General, NICMAR
